Stone is a classic material that's been used in art and architecture for hundreds of years. But natural stone spans style from traditional to modern. Marble that showcases eye-catching, natural veining makes floors and walls a focal point. New colors, shapes and sizes are breathing new life into spaces seeking a natural material with contemporary style.

1 ROOM 3 LOOKS

We're featuring three Floor & Decor Designers who are transforming one room into three different looks with the latest style trends. You can see how each designer uses tile, wood, and stone to create looks that turn your vision into reality! Regardless of size or budget, every room is a blank canvas. You can reinvent your spaces with a little inspiration coupled with exceptional style and value.

CONTEMPORARY FARMHOUSE

DALLAS

KRISTIN NUTTER

Contemporary farmhouse style meets luxury in Kristin's transitional design. She focused on high-contrast details and clean lines while incorporating wood tones, cool grays, and gold metal accents that create a warm, high-style look.

COASTAL

JACKSONVILLE

CHRISTIN VOLGRAF

Christin's coastal design used sea-inspired colors and textured materials, reminiscent of driftwood and coral, to keep the design natural. She chose wire-brushed hardwood flooring, textured quartzite ledger, and a water-like glass mosaic to create this calming escape.

HOUSTON

KELLY HARRIS

Kelly used natural materials with a reclaimed look to make this industrial style kitchen. Here, the neutral color palette maintains a cool balance with a mix of brick, cement, and wood. Plus, the brick-look tile gives a nod to a style known for its urban origins.
